Azar Had No Health Care Experience Pre-HHS Tenure. "T'll Confess That I Wrestled With The Question, Since I Had Not Focused On Health Law In My Legal Career." According to the Indianapolis Star, "After supporting Bush's 2000 campaign, Azar was asked by HHS Secretary Tommy Thompson if he wanted to be the agency's general counsel. 'I'll confess that I wrestled with the question, since I had not focused on health law in my legal career,' he wrote in a profile piece. Within a month, Azar said he'd found his life's calling: "to help people around the world live longer, healthier, and happier lives." [Indianapolis Star, 10/17/17]

Azar Worked On Legal Theories For Bush 2000 Recount. According to the Associated Press, "Among the recount figures identified by The Miami Herald who are now in jobs in the Bush administration are: - Robert Zoellick worked during the recount as an assistant to former Secretary of State James Baker, who directed the Bush operation. Now, he's the U.S. trade representative. - David Aufhauser supervised lawyers who ran Bush's military and overseas ballot recounting campaign. Now, he's general counsel at the Treasury Department. - Alex M. Azar worked on legal theories in Tallahassee. Now, Azar is general counsel at the Department of Health and Human Services." [Associated Press, 7/14/02]

Abortion

Azar "Particularly Committed" To Protecting Rights Of "Unborn." According to a transcript of Alex Azar's remarks to the Islamic Medical Association of North America in Chicago, "I would also like to thank you for your emphasis on protecting the health and well-being of the unborn, the sick, and the dying. Protecting the rights of those individuals is something President Bush, Secretary Leavitt, and I are particularly committed to as well." [Transcript – Azar's Remarks to the Islamic Medical Association of North America, 8/31/2006]

Azar Promoted Born Alive Infants Protection Act And Conscience Laws. According to a transcript of Alex Azar's remarks to the Islamic Medical Association of North America in Chicago, "A few years ago, President Bush signed the Born Alive Infants Protection Act, which ensures that every infant born alive-including an infant who survives an abortion procedure-is considered a person under federal law. In addition, several federal laws protect doctors and medical students from being pressured by their schools, employers, or accrediting bodies into performing or referring for abortions. If you know people who are facing such pressure, tell them they have rights. I'd like to know about it, too." [Transcript – Azar's Remarks to the Islamic Medical Association of North America, 8/31/2006]

Azar Clerked For Justice Scalia

Azar Called Scalia "On Of The 10 Greatest Figures In The History Of Anglo-American Law."

According to an opinion written by Azar in the Salisbury Daily Times, "Imagine being a young 25-year-old clerk working as a professional intimate of one of the 10 greatest figures in the history of Anglo-American law in a thousand years of that tradition. You might as well ask me what was it like to clerk for Lord Chief Justice Edward Coke or Chief Justice John Marshall." [Opinion – Salisbury Daily Times, 2/15/16]

Azar Kept Second Edition Webster's Unabridged Dictionary On His Desk As Tribute To Justice

Scalia. According to an opinion written by Azar in the Salisbury Daily Times, "The most important volume in his private chambers when I clerked for him was the Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, Second Edition. He hated the Third Edition. It was an abomination because it described how words were used, rather than how they should be used, as the Second Edition had done. The Second Edition still sits next to my desk at home in tribute to him." [Opinion – Salisbury Daily Times, 2/15/16]

Azar Clerked For Justice Scalia In October Term 1992. According to an opinion written by Azar in the Salisbury Daily Times, "Alex M. Azar II clerked for Associate Justice Antonin Scalia in October Term 1992, served as deputy secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and is now president of Lilly USA, LLC. The son of Dr. Alex Azar, Azar is a 1985 graduate of Parkside High School." [Opinion – Salisbury Daily Times, 2/15/16]

Azar Oversaw Lilly Lobbying Operations

Azar Oversaw Eli Lilly Lobbying Operations. According to Newswire, "Alex M. Azar II Hired this month as senior vice president of corporate affairs and communications, he was the No. 2 administrator at the Department of Health and Human Services. Because of federal ethics rules, Azar cannot immediately lobby members of Congress or his former agency directly. But he will oversee the international, federal and state lobbying efforts, along with other duties." [Newswire, 5/29/07]

Azar Served On Drug Lobby Board. According to Politico, "As part of his role at Lilly, Azar served on the board of directors for BIO, a drug lobby." [Politico, 10/17/17]

Puerto Rico

Azar Oversaw Lilly & Co. Puerto Rico Sales And Marketing. According to a Press Release by Lilly & Co., "Azar II, currently senior vice president of corporate affairs and communications, will assume the top leadership role in Lilly's U.S. Business-to-Business organization. As vice president of Business-to-Business and Puerto Rico, Azar will oversee the company's public payer, managed care and wholesaler operations in the United States as well as oversee Lilly's sales and marketing operations in Puerto Rico." [Lilly & Co. Press Release, 3/2/09]

Azar Argued For "Minimum Capital Levels", "Risk Sensitive Premiums" And "Closure Rules" In Financial Institutions

Azar Argued For "Minimum Capital Levels" In Financial Institutions To Avoid Volatility. According to an article by Azar in the Yale Law Journal, "This Note has applied basic economic theories to the two major credit risk reducing provisions of FIRREA. It has demonstrated that positive and significant minimum capital levels will help reduce the moral hazard of S&L's to invest in objectively unprofitable asset portfolios (portfolios in which an uninsured firm would not invest). Capital standards will not, however, prevent S&L's controlled by diversified shareholders from investing in objectively profitable asset portfolios that happen to have high credit risk. Thus, regulators should be especially alert to the level of credit risk assumed by S&L's that are controlled by diversified shareholders." [Yale Law Journal, October 1990]

Azar Argued For "Risk Sensitive Premiums" And "Closure Rules" In Financial Institutions.

According to an article by Azar in the Yale Law Journal, "These conclusions suggest that neither risk controlling provision of FIRREA is an adequate substitute for a more fundamental restructuring of the federal deposit insurance system. Such a restructuring might include risk sensitive premiums, which would remove the moral hazard problem itself, and/or prompt closure rules, which would require regulators to close any S&L as soon as it becomes insolvent." [Yale Law Journal, October 1990]

10/22/12: U.S. Senate Candidate Richard Mourdock Said "When Life Begins In That Horrible Situation Of Rape, That's Something God Intended To Happen." According to Politico, "Indiana Republican Senate candidate Richard Mourdock said Tuesday that when a woman is impregnated during a rape 'it's something God intended.' Mourdock was asked during the final minutes of a debate whether abortion should be allowed in cases of rape or incest. He replied: 'I think even when life begins in that horrible situation of rape, that's something God intended to happen." [Politico, 10/23/12]
